

'All the words cannot ease the pain of these losses, but by recalling the horror of that day, and the heroism as well, can hopefully give you some comfort and stiffen the resolve of this nation. At 9.36 a.m., thousands of patriotic Americans are going about their daily business in the building behind me, in this great citadel of our national defense'